

Women Artists of the West

Women's Fine Art in Numerous Subjects & Mediums . . . Across the United States

Cathi Cook

Cathi Cook's expertise became highly recognized in the gift and toy industries, commissioned by dozens of corporations for licensed cartoon characters, prominent celebrities and familiar sports figures, as well as a menagerie of both realistic and whimsical birds and animals. The graceful blending of Cathi's natural ability has complemented her years of specialized precision, rendering a unique, distinctive style now apparent in her limited edition bronze sculptures, ranging in scale from micro miniature to life-size. Her limited edition bronze collections are featured in fine art galleries, corporate collections, and homes around the world.

Growing up in rural Western Pennsylvania set the groundwork for Cathi's love and curiosity of both animals and ranch life. With the purchase of her first horse at age 17, she became mesmerized with the equine spirit. After graduating from horseshoeing school in Oklahoma, Cathi began raising horses and starting colts. Their instincts and ability has been her source of inspiration, along with her interest in Native American and Western cultures. Cathi's home and studio are now in the foothills of Colorado.

